

Reptiles

The Southern Marbled Gecko is almost impossible to see against the bark of the bull-oak tree.

By the creek, the Southern Water Skink searches for tadpoles to eat, but he might have to stay back, because the Eastern Longnecked turtle also enjoys this tasty snack.

Nearby, the Lowland Copperhead Snake finds a nice rock to sunbake. Meanwhile, a Blue-Tongue Lizard scurries in the leaf litter - he has found a snail to eat for dinner!
