

We missed you!

came to visit you to talk about Community Play Streets – a great way to bring neighbours of all ages together, to connect and play.

Do you want to know more?

Please contact:

We missed you!

came to visit you to talk about Community Play Streets – a great way to bring neighbours of all ages together, to connect and play.

Do you want to know more?

Please contact:

We missed you!

came to visit you to talk about Community Play Streets – a great way to bring neighbours of all ages together, to connect and play.

Do you want to know more?

Please contact:

1000 Play Streets is a Play Australia led movement for Australians to reclaim their quiet residential streets as places for neighbours of all ages to connect and play, to create stronger and healthier communities.

Our vision is that children, families, neighbours, pedestrians, bike riders and motorists are given equal priority on our quiet residential streets, to share these important community spaces in a safe and respectful manner every day of the week.

So, what is a Play Street?

It's a simple concept that involves communities and their Local Government working together to temporarily close a quiet residential street, normally lasting about 2-3 hours, so neighbours of all ages can connect and play in a safe and supported manner.

IMPORTANT: Play Streets are not large-scale community events, they are small-scale gatherings for neighbours, ideally coordinated by residents themselves.

Proudly supported by:

Visit playaustralia.org.au to find out more.

1000 Play Streets is a Play Australia led movement for Australians to reclaim their quiet residential streets as places for neighbours of all ages to connect and play, to create stronger and healthier communities.

Our vision is that children, families, neighbours, pedestrians, bike riders and motorists are given equal priority on our quiet residential streets, to share these important community spaces in a safe and respectful manner every day of the week.

So, what is a Play Street?

It's a simple concept that involves communities and their Local Government working together to temporarily close a quiet residential street, normally lasting about 2-3 hours, so neighbours of all ages can connect and play in a safe and supported manner.

IMPORTANT: Play Streets are not large-scale community events, they are small-scale gatherings for neighbours, ideally coordinated by residents themselves.

Proudly supported by:

Visit playaustralia.org.au to find out more.

1000 Play Streets is a Play Australia led movement for Australians to reclaim their quiet residential streets as places for neighbours of all ages to connect and play, to create stronger and healthier communities.

Our vision is that children, families, neighbours, pedestrians, bike riders and motorists are given equal priority on our quiet residential streets, to share these important community spaces in a safe and respectful manner every day of the week.

So, what is a Play Street?

It's a simple concept that involves communities and their Local Government working together to temporarily close a quiet residential street, normally lasting about 2-3 hours, so neighbours of all ages can connect and play in a safe and supported manner.

IMPORTANT: Play Streets are not large-scale community events, they are small-scale gatherings for neighbours, ideally coordinated by residents themselves.

Proudly supported by:

Visit playaustralia.org.au to find out more.